TLM's POLITICAL BATTLE TURNS VIOLENT

Council members were prevented from entering the TLM building.

Thabazimbi - Chaos erupted at Thabazimbi Local Municipality's (TLM) offices on Tuesday 16 May 2023 when council members were prevented to enter the building to hold a meeting. Several videos circulating on social media show how bricks and stones were thrown to and fro. Warning shots were fired which had everyone scrambling for safety, only to return shortly after. Platinum Bushvelder was unable to ascertain who fired the shots and if it was blanks that were fired.

Before October 2022, TLM was not governed by a single party. It functioned as a coalition municipality, consisting of five political parties, namely, the Democratic Alliance (DA), Freedom Front Plus (VF Plus), Economic Freedom Fighters (EFF), Thabazimbi Residents Association (TRA), and the Thabazimbi Forum for Service Delivery (TFSD). Together, these five parties hold 12 seats within the council.

During October 2022, the Waterberg African National Congress (ANC) entered a vote of no confidence against the DA TLM mayor, councillor Tokkie Swanepoel, and speaker, councillor Ben Thlabadira. Since then, the opposing parties have been going back and forth in the courts to contest the mayorship and the office of the speaker.

According to VF Plus councillor Frik Erasmus several councillors wanted to start with a caucus meeting just before 11:00, leading to a council meeting which was set to start at 14:00. However, an altercation ensued as council members were prevented from entering the building.

TLM speaker Tshogofatso Ramoabi explained that there is a court order preventing TLM councillor Ben Thlabadira from calling council meetings. He added that Thlabadira contravened this court order and was prevented from entering the building together with the other councillors.

The opposing parties in this ongoing battle are now pointing the finger at each other as to who is responsible for starting the violence and causing property damages such as broken glass doors and windows.

In the meantime, TLM released a statement saying that the municipal finance section will be closed on 17 May 2023 because the area has been declared as a crime scene after the incident and should re-open on Thursday, 18 May 2023.

The matter will appear before the Limpopo High Court on 24 May 2023. Until then, the situation in Thabazimbi remains uncertain, and it is unclear if the opposing parties will ever see eye-to-eye.

The incident is not a good example of abiding to the law. Hopefully the opposing parties would consider resolving this issue in a more constructive manner.

SHOTS FIRED!

Thabazimbi – Security groups were abuzz after the sound of gunfire echoed in Dahlia Street early on Friday morning 12 May 2023.

At approximately 4:00 in the morning a resident in Dahlia Street woke up when he heard movement in his yard. Like most people nowadays, he did not leave the safety of his home to go outside unarmed. Upon inspection he saw two intruders lurking in his yard—and one of them had an object in his hand, which looked like a firearm. He immediately fired warning shots which set the whole neighbourhood on alert. The intruders jumped the wall and disappeared into the neighbouring area.

This incident sparked reports from other residents who have been struggling with intruders in 6th and 13th Avenue.

“Criminal activity has drastically been increasing over the past month. On an average evening we have approximately two or three attempted break-ins. This of course goes together with a poor economy and increasing joblessness. It's almost impossible for people to keep up with the rising food prices, and piece jobs are also becoming scarcer. Unfortunately, people resort to crime,” said Thabazimbi community policing forum (CPF) chairperson Petrus van Breda. Although firing a warning shot is legal in South Africa, it can only be done if there are no other options to deter a potentially life-threatening attack. It is also advisable to when faced with such a situation to fire the warning shot or shots into the ground to limit the risk of injury or death which can be caused by a warning shot fired into the air.

On Monday 15 May 2023 Platinum Bushvelder reached out to warrant officer Jaco Havenga, who urges residents to not discharge firearms without understanding the law, and to officially report break-ins to the Thabazimbi Police. Hereby a notice issued by warrant officer Havenga: “This is an urgent call on the public to not just shoot at ‘suspects’. The Criminal Procedure Act and Act 60 of 2000 of the Firearms Act, is very clear when you can use your firearm in self-defence. To wait for a suspect outside your house/ who is busy climbing over your wall/fence and to shoot at him, makes you guilty of attempted murder. And if the suspect died because of the gunshot wound, you will be prosecuted for murder. Your firearm must be your last resort to protect your life in self-defence. I know we are all fed up with the crime in and around Thabazimbi, but all shooting incidents MUST be reported to and investigated by the South African Police Service (SAPS). The SAPS member visiting the scene can use his/her own discretion if no one was injured or no property was damaged, not to proceed with a case. Example after 2 days a body with a gunshot wound is discovered and then there's no information of who, what, why, or when this happened. During the nights, especially during loadshedding times, the Thabazimbi community policing forum (CPF) private security and SAPS are doing on-foot and vehicle patrols. These people on patrol can be injured or killed by ‘warning’ shots fired.

I also call upon all the neighbourhood watch groups in and around Thabazimbi to join the CPF structure (there is provision made for neighbourhood watches) so that all incidents can be recorded at their control room. The CPF and Thabazimbi Fire and Rescue control room is functional 24 hours, 7 days a week, and keeps record of all reported incidents and informs all the necessary emergency services (SAPS, ambulances, fire brigade, and CPF patrol personnel). Your cooperation is appreciated.”

If you would like to join the CPF, please contact chairperson Petrus van Breda on 079 897 5611. If you would like to join the TFR, please contact chairperson Pierre Loots on 083 603 5678. To report criminal activity, contact the Thabazimbi SAPS on 014 777 3500.

Let her play rugby! [Letter to the Editor]

Thabazimbi – I’m the mother of a 12-year-old girl and lately I’ve been wondering why only boys are allowed to play rugby? That seems to be the growing question on a number of mommies’ lips these days. According to World Rugby, in 2026, 40% of the total number of rugby players will be female. In South Africa, and mostly small towns, it's apparent that girls should be girls and keep themselves busy with netball and other sports. Rugby is a heavy contact sport and teachers as well as parents don't want little girls getting hurt.

But what are the benefits for young girls playing rugby? Rugby could help to transform your daughter's life both on and off the field. It benefits their physical, social, and emotional wellbeing and creates a feeling of equality. In some primary schools, girls are permitted to play in the boys' team but only until age nine, or up until the physical part of the game becomes serious. There are girls who enjoy contact sports more than boys do, so why not let them have this opportunity? I vote, let them play if they want to, I am sure if the schools will test run this, they might be surprised by the number of girls who would actually like to join the team. Who knows, maybe our girls have more strength than what they are given credit for? Mommy dearest

Some learnt in school, and others never followed the rule; while tying a tie might seem like a no-brainer to some, others have never mastered the seemingly easy skill. Do you know how to tie a tie, and if 'knot' why?

Yes, I do. My dad taught me when I was still young. I was attending primary school when he showed me how to do it.

Yes, I do. I learnt how to tie a tie at school when I was fifteen. I can tie a tie using three different methods!
