Mission accomplished!
Tant Mollie Park is now clean and tidy thanks to community effort.

Thabazimbi – Armed with rakes, black bags and community spirit, volunteers gathered on Saturday, 28 June 2025, for a cleanup drive at Tant Mollie Park in Jourdan Street.

The initiative was spearheaded by DA Ward 2 Councillor Estie Fourie, who rallied about 15 local residents to restore the park's beauty.

"We're committed to reclaiming our public spaces," said Councillor Fourie. "This is only the beginning — every weekend we'll be cleaning a new area in Thabazimbi and Regorogile."

This coming Saturday, 5 July, the team will tackle the park in Judith Street. Residents are invited to join in and are encouraged to bring black bags and rakes.

Special thanks go to Roots, Thaba Spar, and Foodzone for generously donating water, cooldrinks and food for the volunteers, and to Wimpie for supporting the Thabazimbi Local Municipality in this effort.

HAVE YOUR SAY

Do you think the cost of lobola (bride price) has become unreasonable in today's times?

Lobola is a longstanding African tradition meant to honour a bride's family and unite two households. However, with rising costs — often reaching tens of thousands of rands — some feel it's become a financial burden rather than a cultural celebration. What's your view on lobola in today's economic climate?

It depends on the person and their family. Some are in it for love, others for financial gain. Sadly, it's rare these days to find someone truly genuine.

Unarine Ramabulana, Thabazimbi

Yes. Lobola is a respected tradition, but the rising costs often put pressure on young couples. Families need to find a balance between culture and today's economic realities.

Court grants final postponement in Van der Walt assault case

Leon and Monique van der Walt — unwavering in their pursuit of justice, despite yet another court delay in the assault case.

Thabazimbi – The wheels of justice continue to grind slowly in the assault case of Leon van der Walt, who was brutally assaulted in September last year – but there is finally light at the end of the tunnel. The trial against the accused, Andrew Wynand Hoffman, has once again been postponed — this time to 17 July 2025 — but the court has declared this to be the final postponement. This decision was made during the latest court appearance on 26 June 2025, where the matter was postponed for a possible plea of guilt and commencement of trial. The case has faced three delays since the trial phase was supposed to begin. Leon was violently attacked in September 2024, and since then, he and his wife Monique have endured a long and trying wait for justice to be served. Despite the setbacks, they have remained strong, supported by the community's ongoing encouragement and prayers. Court delays have included issues such as changes in legal representation and pending disclosure processes. The trial is set to resume at 08:30 on Thursday 17 July 2025.
