WATCH YOUR STEP! It's Snake Time in Thaba

Thabazimbi – With temperatures climbing, snake season has arrived in the Bushveld – and it's already proving to be an active one. Residents are urged to be vigilant, cautious, and above all, not to attempt handling snakes themselves.

"It's summertime, and we need to be vigilant – it's snake season," said Pierre Loots, director of Thaba Fire & Rescue. "This year, we're already seeing many mambas and puff adders so early in the season, which could become a real challenge."

Snake experts remind residents that these reptiles play an important role in balancing nature by controlling rodent populations. However, their presence also brings danger. In the Thabazimbi area, highly venomous snakes such as the black mamba, Mozambique spitting cobra, and puff adder are a reality. Their bites can be fatal if not treated swiftly.

Despite their fearsome reputation, snakes are not naturally aggressive – most will avoid confrontation if given the chance. Problems arise when snakes are cornered or when untrained people attempt to catch or kill them.

!! SNAKE WARNING !!

With the temperature rising, more snakes are starting to come out. Please be careful and be on the lookout for snakes. Do not try to kill or catch the snake – call the snake catchers.

Local rescuers and snake handlers, including Thaba Fire & Rescue and WildMed Emergency Services, are on call to assist when needed. "Let the experts handle them," Loots stressed.

As summer unfolds, residents are urged to stay alert, keep yards tidy to reduce hiding spots, and teach children to respect wildlife from a safe distance. In the words of one snake handler: "If you see a snake, don't panic – step back, give it space, and call for help."

Child Assault Trial Pushed to September 22

Thabazimbi – The long-running child assault trial involving Ria Oberholzer, Petrus Oelofse, and Jesica Hull has once again been postponed. The case, already marked by repeated delays, will now only continue on 22 September 2025. Earlier this month, proceedings stalled when Oelofse was reportedly too ill to attend court, forcing another reschedule. The accused — who face charges ranging from child neglect to sexual assault — remain out on bail as the matter drags on in the Thabazimbi Magistrates' Court. The trio has been appearing since March 2024, when the charges were first laid. In June 2025, the trial was delayed to accommodate special assistive devices for a hearing-impaired witness, adding to the long list of postponements. Oelofse faces charges of sexual assault and child neglect, while Oberholzer and Hull are charged with child neglect and assault with intent to cause grievous bodily harm.

Local entrepreneurs engage during Marakele National Park's Supplier Day, aimed at empowering SMMEs with tools for growth and sustainability.

Supplier Day at Marakele National Park

Thabazimbi – On Monday, 1 September 2025, Marakele National Park hosted a Supplier Day as part of the SANParks Enterprise and Supplier Development Programme, giving local SMMEs the knowledge and support needed to grow. Common challenges — such as completing RFQ documents, meeting quality standards, and accessing funding — were addressed, with guidance on pricing, compliance, and preparing competitive quotations. SANParks also highlighted current and upcoming opportunities on its website, encouraging suppliers to bid not only at Marakele but also at other national parks. The day included the launch of the SANLAM Purchase Order Fund, a zero-interest initiative providing up to R1 million to businesses within 50 km of Marakele, ensuring they can deliver on purchase orders without financial setbacks. Special thanks went to park manager Koketso Kotsoe, regional finance manager Mzabalazo Khosa, and regional enterprise and supplier development manager Wandisiwe Marhaya, alongside BeeAfrican, I Am an Entrepreneur, and SANParks' socio-economic team. This initiative is a meaningful step towards sustainable business growth, strengthening both the local economy and Marakele's partnerships with the community.

HAVE YOUR SAY

Do you think women are better drivers than men?

The age-old debate continues! Some say women are more cautious behind the wheel, while others argue men have the upper hand in skill and confidence. Road safety stats often spark this conversation, but opinions differ widely. What do you think — are women truly the better drivers, or is it just a stereotype?

“Yes. Women generally move more cautiously in traffic and tend to stick to the rules of the road. They wear seatbelts consistently and usually keep their speed in check, which makes them safer drivers.”

Tebogo Matjila, Thabazimbi

“Some women may be better drivers than men, but overall, I think men are stronger drivers. Often, when a woman is the backseat driver reminding him to be careful, it helps him drive more responsibly.”

Jurita Weber, Thabazimbi
